Publications of
The Hispanic Society of America

G. P. Putnam's Sons of New York and London have been appointed publishing agents for The Hispanic Society of America; and they are prepared to fill orders for the series of publications issued by the Society.

The Hispanic Society, the organization of which was completed in 1904, has for its purpose, in addition to the establishment of a free public library, a museum, and an educational institution, the advancement of the study of the Spanish and Portuguese languages and of the literature and history of the countries wherein Spanish and Portuguese are spoken.

The publications thus far issued by The Hispanic Society comprise about one hundred titles. Among the more important works included in this list, exclusive of those the editions of which are exhausted, is the authoritative Spanish edition of Don Quixote de la Mancha. It is planned to complete the work in seven volumes, the first three of which are now in readiness.

Illustrated Catalogues of the Works of certain great artists, such as Sorolla, Zuloaga, etc.

Reproductions of maps of historic importance, such as the Genoese World Map of 1457; and of Spanish texts in facsimile.

Publications of literary criticism, as those of Ramon Menendez Pidal, and James Fitzmaurice-Kelley.

The Revue Hispanique devoted to a study of the languages, the literatures, and the history of the Castilian, Catalan, and Portuguese countries, —six issues annually.

The Bibliographie Hispanique, an annual catalogue of books and articles of importance in the Hispanic field.

Copies of the General Catalogue of the publications of the Society and announcements of the issues of each season will be sent on application.

The Illustrated Catalogue will be sent on receipt of twenty-five cents.

"With the original text on one page and the best obtainable English translation facing it on the opposite page, and with the price placing the books within the reach of all lovers of ancient literature, the publication of this great collection brings reinforcement to the friends of the humanities at a time when it is sorely needed. . . . . A fine achievement—a notable addition to the higher intellectual resources of the English-speaking peoples, and a credit to our own country."—The Nation.

The Loeb Classical Library

A new, comprehensive, and uniform series of classical Greek and Latin texts with parallel English translations of the highest quality.

It is the idea of Mr. James Loeb, who has entered upon the undertaking with commendable enthusiasm to bring the ancient world closer to the modern; to make, in a word, the literary treasures of the past more accessible to the reader of to-day.

Edited by
E. Capps, Ph.D., LL.D., T. E. Page, M.A., Litt.D., and W. H. D. Rouse, Litt.D.
assisted by an Advisory Board of Eminent Scholars

The latest and best critical texts are used and the translations, which combine accuracy with sound English idiom, are, with rare exceptions, in prose. Each volume is prefaced by a brief biography and contains bibliography and index.

The Series is to contain all that is best in Greek and Latin Literature from the time of Homer to the fall of Constantinople.

All products listed in this catalog, if within the limits of weight and size, are mailable at Parcel Post Rates as per table. A fraction of a pound is considered a full pound. In the first and second zones the weight limit is 50 pounds, beyond the second zone, 20 pounds.

The weight and description of each article is given in the catalog. By referring to the Parcel Post Map find the zone in which the destination of the package is located, and then consult the Table of Rates to find the amount of postage required.

It is not our custom to make C. O. D. shipments by parcel post.

Cloth, 12mo, 360 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K
To amass a fund for the financing of a "Cause," a cultured foreign exile becomes the leader of a band of "sky pirates." In seemingly invincible aërial craft they are the terror of the United States. Attacks are made upon cities rich in loot; fair maidens are kidnaped. A newspaper syndicate secures the services of a famous aviator and an intrepid reporter to trace the pirates to their stronghold and there do battle with them. It is around the adventures of these two men, and around their love affairs—which certainly don't run smoothly—that the story is woven.
The author succeeds in no less degree than did Jules Verne in making the impossible seem possible. "The Pirates of the Sky" will hold a reader spellbound from first to last chapter.

"The lesson of Marie Bashkirtseff's journal may be summed up in this: It is a truthful exhibition of the passions and ambitions of not womankind alone but of mankind in general. The Marie who is thus disclosed as a bird beating its wings against the bars of a cage is not an isolated case, but a type of the struggling multitude who are fighting the battles of life in our own midst. It is something gained to know that one of the number, fired with an extraordinary resolve, beset with temptations on every hand, burdened far beyond an ordinary strength, fought fiercely for glory, and although wounded often and sore, the record of her life laid before us as an open book contains so little that may not be forgiven and so much that is good."

Lewis, James Hamilton. TWO GREAT REPUBLICS.
Cloth, wt. 18 oz. ..... Net $1.00 K

A careful, convincing analysis of the big movements of Roman political history with a view to discovering whether or not the rise and fall of that government teaches any lesson of value to America to-day, and whether the evils which caused the overthrow of the Roman republic have any counterpart in the problems which now confront our own country. Quite aside from the actual existence of parallel conditions in the old and the new republic, to every thoughtful American such a comparison must be of interest and of value. Mr. Lewis has brought to his interpretation an amazing historical knowledge, a just philosophical attitude, and a clearness and vigor of expression which immediately win the confidence of the reader and hold his attention to the end. An important contribution to both historical and political literature.

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth. THE SONG OF HIAWATHA. Player's edition. Introduction by Frank W. Gunsaulus, D.D. Illustrated with eight full-page color plates and fifty-six sepia duo-tones from photographs by Grace Chandler Horn.

A beautiful edition illustrated with unusual photographs by Grace Chandler Horn. Taken from life among the Ojibwas, these pictures give us the very characters, the very scenes so beautifully sung in Longfellow's poem. Minnehaha, Hiawatha as a baby, child, and man; the beautiful woods; "the luminous water" are brought before us with lifelike vividness. The natural theater near the Canadian border, in which the play of Hiawatha is so remarkably given by full-blooded Ojibwa Indians, also is shown. From this dramatic representation the edition takes its name.

"One could hardly select a more pleasing gift book or a more fitting one for the library table on which all lovers of books want those which become beloved and familiar companions."—The Boston Budget.

Two volumes, 254+256 pages, boxed. Special cloth, library edition, wt. 58 oz.....Net $2.00 K

The illustrations and decorations in this edition are of particular interest. The front cover design, by Miss Mary E. Phillips, is in gold and Pompeian red against a black ground, after fresco which beautified the walls of the "House of Castor and Pollux." The obverse side has two horizontal panels, the upper showing cupids racing in goat chariots, the lower evolved from a Pompeian expression in black and white. The torch on this side of the cover is symbolic of the destructive force of Vesuvius. The lettering used for the title of the work is an imitation of inscriptions found at Pompeii. On the title page is a reproduction of a mosaic border, in colors, said to have been discovered in the "House of the Faun." The handsome monogravures are in large measure adapted from famous paintings.

The edition is printed from new plates in large type, on deckle-edged paper, gilt tops.

There is a wealth of sentiment in these verses. They cover a wide range of ideas, and their style is as diverse as their subject matter. The author reaches below the surface of things in life and touches the hidden springs of man's being and of his activities. Particularly noticeable is depth of thought in the poems dealing with religious themes. They make a distinct appeal to the spiritual in man's nature, and are satisfying to the devout soul. The contrast of temporal and eternal is well brought out, and it is the impulse guiding the life rather than mere things of sense which calls out the author's best efforts.

This book of definite information concerning theosophy demonstrates that there is possible such development of the inner organs of perception that the soul and spirit worlds become as clear to the supersensory sight as the outer world to the physical senses. The relation of theosophy and Christianity is brought to light, for the spiritual currents of all religions are shown to meet in Christianity, constituting it the universal religion of mankind. Theosophy, by searching into the hidden consciousness, explains from its wider outlook the meaning and differences in religions, systems of philosophy, and the phenomena of existence.

Cloth, 12mo, 342 pages, 22 oz.....Net $1.00 K

The life of Christ is here given in story form, and most wonderfully has the atmosphere of His surroundings been preserved and the beauty of His character revealed. Being told from the standpoint of little playmates of Jesus, the story will make a strong appeal to children. The childhood and adult periods of the life are portrayed, but the author has refrained from picturing the agonies of the Crucifixion and the tragic events which preceded it.

It is neither metaphysical nor mystical, but a straightforward reply to disbelievers or doubters in the immortality of the spirit. The author's reputation is established through his "Idylls of Greece," and we are confident this essay will have a very wide circulation. It is one of the latest additions to New Thought literature, and in its present form will make an appropriate gift from friend to friend, upon any and all occasions.

Bell, Lilian. THE LAND OF DON'T-WANT-TO. Illustrated by Milo Winter.

Cloth, 8vo, 212 pages, wt. 36 oz. . . . . $1.25 R

This is a "zipping," fantastic story; full of puns and absurd ideas and nonsensical verses that will keep children laughing much as Lewis Carroll's books do.

Billy, having said "I don't want to" more times than he should have, is snatched from his bed by the Dont-want-tos, but is rescued from them by the fairy Nimbus, who asks him to help in the difficult task of finding the South Pole, who has tired of his post and left. They start out in a wonderous craft, The Flying Lobster, and many thrilling adventures are theirs before the reign of King Harmony and Queen Gentledeed puts an end to the Land of Dont-Want-To itself. The character of these incidents may be guessed from such names as Mrs. Seal, Mrs. Spank-you, the Scorpion, the Vacuum, the Fixed Star, the Polar Bear, and the Equine Ox—who appears and disappears like the Cheshire Cat in "Alice in Wonderland," but is a loquacious person greatly given to speaking in rhyme.

Cloth, large quarto, 196 pages, wt. 24 oz. . . . . $0.75 R

It is quite possible that Mother Goose Village is not on any map, yet after reading Miss Bigham's charming account of the events that occurred there, we are ready to believe in its existence. She tells us all about "Polly Flinder's Apron," "Tommy Grace's Party," "Simple Simon's Silken Coat," "Little Miss Muffet's Valentine," and, best of all, about the "Schoolmaster's Pie."

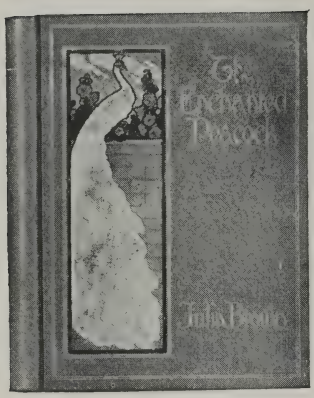
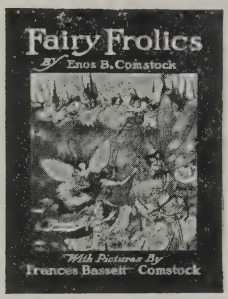
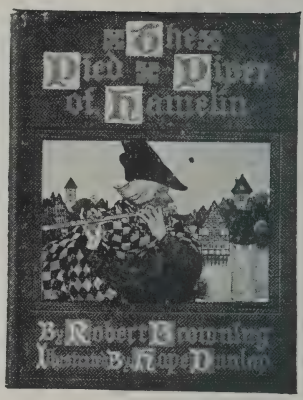
Cloth, 8vo, 147 pages, wt. 18 oz. . . . . $0.65 R

Folk Tales from the Russian, by Verra Xenophontovna Kalamatiano de Blumenthal, a Russian countess, presents a few of the many stories which mark the beginning of Russian literature. This is probably the first collection of Russian folk tales published in the English language.







Brown, Julia. THE ENCHANTED PEACOCK. Illustrated with four full-page pictures in color and eight black and white illustrations, together with headings and tail-pieces, in half tones, by Lucy Fitch Perkins.

Cloth, 8vo, 136 pages, wt. 22 oz. ..... Net $0.75 K

A series of rarely beautiful fairy stories emphasizing the impotence of all evil and the lasting reality and ultimate triumph of whatever is good and true. This idea is not given by any bald moralizing, but is subtly interwoven with the romance and adventure of each bewitching tale. Miss Brown is, indeed, the find in modern fairy-story writing. The tales are charmingly interpreted in Lucy Fitch Perkins's delightful illustrations.

THE MERMAID'S GIFT. Illustrated with eight full-page color pictures by Maginel Wright Enright.

Cloth, 8vo, 168 pages, wt. 22 oz. ..... Net $0.75 K

Another set of six fairy tales full of charm and originality, and quite as fascinating as those in The Enchanted Peacock. The new book, like the first, has a golden thread of deep ethical meaning running through its pretty patterns of poetry and imagination.

Quarto, 56 pages, wt. 20 oz. ..... $1.25 R

In The Pied Piper of Hamelin the story itself has always had a wonderful sort of attraction. Children liked it, men liked it, from the first day the poem appeared. Though neither mice nor children could resist the Piper, in the older editions the journey was rather sad. Now it is different. The "getting there" is wonderful. In the beautiful new edition of Browning's great child story we are given a new vision. The pictures by Hope Dunlap throw wide to the sunlight the full beauty of the story. The illustrator brings out with an exquisite art all the humorous touches; the quaint beauty and interest of the town, the time, and the people; the rich color possibilities of the situation. Further, she imparts a life and individuality to her characters, which will entrance the children.

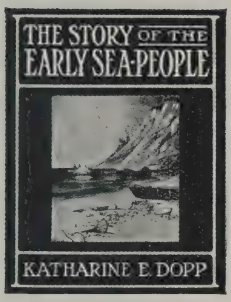
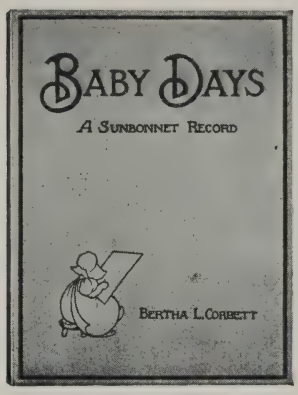
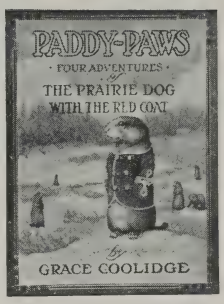
Comstock, Enos B. FAIRY FROLICS. Illustrated with colored inserts and black and white illustrations on every page, by Frances Bassett Comstock.

Cloth, colored paster, square 8vo, wt. 24 oz. ..... Net $1.00 K

Fairyland itself is disclosed in this book of whimsical verse and fanciful pictures. After the first glimpse within one hesitates to close the covers for fear of crushing the gossamer gowns, and butterfly wings, and dainty flowers that riot over the pages. Not only to the true believer but to those not yet in sympathy with sprites and things faëry are the verses recommended, for every imaginative reader will appreciate the elfish charm with which they tell just where and how the fairies live, and how much fun it is to be one.







Coolidge, Grace. PADDY-PAWS. With forty illustrations in color, by Warner Carr.
Cloth, square 12mo, 80 pages, wt. 14 oz. .....Net $0.50 L

No child can fail to follow with keenest delight these sketches of the happenings of four days in the life of a little prairie dog. In the story there is no perilous element, no fierceness or taking of life in fields or woods. The gentler side of animal life is pictured, yet the story is full of spirit and action. The prairie dog's adventures will prove of absorbing interest for wee folk. Mr. Carr has as great mastery over his brush as the author has over the pen. The illustrations show that command of technique and that originality which, combined, hold young readers spellbound.

Cloth, square 12mo, wt. 20 oz.....Net $0.75 K

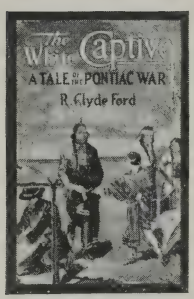
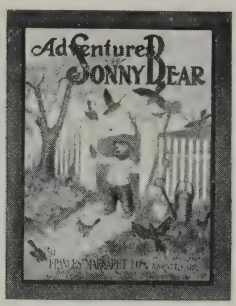
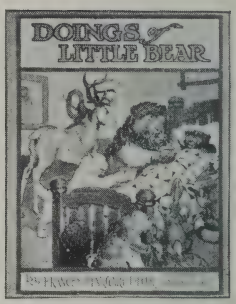
In The Story of the Early Sea-People are embodied the stirring and inspiring elements of the old myths and tales of fairy princes, yet it is really a chronicle of our prehistoric ancestors based on the most authentic knowledge of them obtainable. As the title suggests, the age presented is that in which the perils and possibilities of the ocean were first tested. Vivid incidents show how an inland tribe, forced to the seacoast by oncoming foes and the need of a more bountiful food supply, gradually become adapted to a seafaring life.







Elderdice, J. Raymond. THE LAST DITCH. Four illustrations by James McCracken.

Cloth, 12mo, 307 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.00 K

Carvel Hildreth, the hero of this story, leaves college under a cloud, but redeems himself by hard work on the Canal, and ultimately returns to Ballard, where he immediately regains his leadership. It is a fine, spirited, and decidedly pointed story, which will make a strong appeal to American youths. In it no less than three big ends are achieved. The first is patriotism, for a man practically without a country is born anew into intense love for the United States; second, the book presents a magnificent picture of the Canal Zone and its colossal engineering feat from the viewpoint of an earnest striver for the honor of the States in the successful accomplishment of a mighty task; third, it depicts the conversion of a careless, heedless spendthrift of time and money into the ideal of noble manhood.

Ford, R. Clyde. THE WHITE CAPTIVE: A TALE OF THE PONTIAC WAR. Four illustrations in black and white by C. L. Cole. Colored frontispiece and maps and half-tones.

Cloth, 12mo, 304 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.00 K

In the year 1760, when Detroit was surrounded by a stockade and the Union Jack waved above it, Willy Langford, an English boy, is redeemed from Indians by Wa-boose, and enters the service of the quartermaster of the fort. Separated for years from his mother, herself a captive, the object of his life is to learn her whereabouts and secure her freedom. As factor's clerk and frontiersman, he experiences many thrilling adventures; he takes part in the Indian warfare of the day and is wounded in the Battle of Bloody Run, when Pontiac, the famous Ottawa chief, engages in his great combat with the English.

Fox, Frances Margaret. DOINGS OF LITTLE BEAR. Sixteen full-page drawings in color and sixteen black and white by Warner Carr.

Cloth, 12mo, 80 pages, wt. 18 oz.....Net $0.50 K

There is not the least particle of doubt that little children will love to follow the footsteps of Little Bear, get all his surprises—good and bad—and learn by his experiences what to do and what to leave undone. He was a wee, wee baby bear; his father was a big, big bear; and his mother a middle-sized bear. And they knew Goldilock's family well. The book is an ideal one for tiny children.

Cloth, 12mo, 80 pages, wt. 16 oz.....Net $0.50 K

This collection of little stories about Sonny Bear and his big, big father and middle-sized mother is ideal. Not only is the style unusually winning but the characters as well are to be loved dearly. Unfailing good-humor, tenderness, and sympathy are displayed by all members of the family, and so poignant, appealing, and altogether pleasant are the simple virtues made to appear that the little book is positively inspiring. The secret of its grip—for it has grip—probably lies in the fact that it is brimful of fun. At the end of every story you feel like taking Sonny Bear up and giving him a good hug. The keynote of Father Bear's existence is "Ta-de-dum-dum-dum," a slogan that is indeed funny when echoed by Sonny Bear. Mother Bear is jolly and efficient at all times.

The tender child thoughts ring so true, their charms and questioning are so naturally presented, that any little listener will delight in the book, and any older person will gladly read it to the child.

T. ("Penny") Ross, form the contents of this whimsical little book.

Her sympathetic understanding of the child mind is the secret of Elizabeth Gordon's success as a writer for children. In these eight tales, a little girl of five or six makes the acquaintance of the fairies of the waves, raindrops, sleep, dreams, frost, and others of the "Little People." From them she learns the beautiful lesson that every one has his own work to do in the world and that no one can do it for him. Charming illustrations help to make the book one which will become a favorite in many a nursery.

The Sunbonnet Babies promise to take a place beside Kate Greenaway's children and Palmer Cox's brownies. Cloth, 12mo, 102 pages, wt. 12 oz.....Net $0.50 K

Child Stories from the Masters is artistically and mechanically one of the most attractive books of its kind for children. In an admirably simple and sympathetic manner Miss Menefee has told the stories of Browning's Pippa, of Saul and David, of Dante's Beatrice, and of Goethe's Wilhelm Meister and Mignon. Less unusual than these, perhaps, as subjects for children's stories, but not less attractive than they, are the tales from Wagner's operas, Siegfried and Parsifal, presented without any of the intricacies of the master. The stories provide children who have outgrown their gruel with reading matter full of pith and vigor and yet sufficiently easy for their comprehension.

The author of this book has brought the distinctive features of the different bears before the reader so as to instruct as well as to interest children and children's parents in the simple realities of bear life.

A fanciful tale of the days of Otto the Good, King of Saxony. Rupert, his youngest son, marries Elizabeth, a beautiful peasant girl, and their daughter is the Princess Goldenhair. The marriage of Elizabeth excites the envy of her stepmother, who, with the aid of a dwarf, succeeds in stealing Goldenhair from the palace. For years she remains hidden from her parents.

The manner in which she is finally recovered cannot fail to appeal to the imagination of a child.

Stevenson, Robert Louis. A CHILD'S GARDEN OF VERSES. Illustrated with ten full-page pictures in five colors and many drawings in pen and ink and half tone by M. H. Squire and E. Mars.

Cloth, 8vo, 93 pages, wt. 14 oz..... $0.75 R

New edition, ooze calf, boxed, wt. 14 oz.....Net $1.25 K

Verses that will always stand as the truest revelation of a child's heart and outlook. Delicate, simple, with the inexpressible charm that Stevenson alone can give. "The Garden" is full of enchantment for young or old. Who could pass by the "Shadow March" and "Windy Nights"? And as for "The Moon," and the wonderful "Wind," as long as there is a child to enjoy them, these beautiful verses will be charged with glamour and mystery.

KIDNAPPED. See Ranally Series, p. 44.

Cloth, square 12mo, 80 pages, wt. 18 oz.....Net $0.50 K

Told in smoothly-flowing rhyme, there is about this fanciful tale something particularly attractive and novel. The toys—the elephants, dolls, sailor-boys, rocking-horses, jumping Jacks, even the drums, trumpets, and rubber balls—deciding to run away from Nuremberg and have adventures of their own, the little ones hear them in their sleep and follow. The outcome will be breathlessly awaited by a child, the youthful imagination being fired by charming illustrations, delightfully interpretative of the author's fancies.

Washburne, Marion Foster. OLD FASHIONED FAIRY TALES. Retold from the poetic version of Tom Hood. Illustrated with many artistic pictures by Margaret Ely Webb.

Cloth, 8vo, 108 pages, wt. 18 oz..... $0.75 R

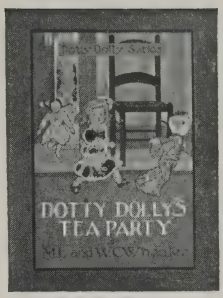
Although slightly changed from the way Grandmama's Grandma related the story, "Red Riding-hood," as told here, cannot fail to charm every little reader. "Hop o' my Thumb," "Puss in Boots," and "The Sleeping Beauty" are as delightfully retold in the same volume, with extracts from Tom Hood's verses woven into the entertaining narrative.



Weeks, Arland D. PLAY DAYS ON PLUM BLOSSOM CREEK. With sixteen colored illustrations by Warner Carr.

Cloth, 12mo, 96 pages, wt. 20 oz.....Net $0.75 K

This delightful book is devoted to the doings of a family of bears, whose characteristics will appeal strongly to children. Mr. Bear, fussy and comical, is inclined to laziness, while Mrs. Bear is always thinking of his comfort and the happiness of her funny little children. From the first chapter, where they sally forth to a picnic, to the last, where a motorcycle sets them guessing and causes them to leave their old home on the creek, a sense of reality pervades these stories, which cannot fail to hold and amuse young readers.

Wheeler, Marguerite and Willard C. DOTTY DOLLY'S TEA PARTY. With twenty-eight illustrations in color by the authors.

Square 16mo, boards, 80 pages, wt. 10 oz..... Net $0.50 L

A first volume in a series which is bound to find many friends. Very young people, for whom the book is gotten up, cannot fail to enjoy the pranks of the Kewpie Dolly, the Toy Soldier and the Cat, who are among the guests at this frolicsome party. Both illustrators have long enjoyed a high reputation. Seeing a thing from a child's point of view, they succeed not only in awakening the child's interest, but in holding it when awakened.

Williston, Teresa Peirce. JAPANESE FAIRY TALES. Illustrated in five colors by Sanchi Ogawa.

Cloth, square 12mo, 74 pages, wt. 14 oz.....Net $0.75 K

Among all the beautiful books that have been published since the struggle between Russia and Japan, none, we believe, is more beautiful and more strikingly unique than Japanese Fairy Tales. Others have told of the past, the present, and the future of those most interesting little people the Japanese, but Mrs. Williston went straight to their literature and found there some of the most charming fairy tales ever told to boys and girls. She has retold the stories with all the charm, the quaintness, and the naïveté characteristic of the people of Japan.

To say the new thing about "Treasure Island" is, at this late day, impossible. In literature, it remains the crowned classic of the sheerly adventurous. It may be remarked, however, that in this edition Milo Winter outdoes all former efforts and proves himself the equal of the greatest European illustrators. His pictures are spirited interpretations of Stevenson's text and necessary accompaniments thereto. The "Windermere" books are favorites with young and old; the reason becomes clear when one considers the high standard of their titles, the quality of the colored illustrations, and their remarkably low price.

With striking originality of conception and with thoroughly modern ideas as to the most effective handling of his materials, he has produced a set of pictures which alone makes the book a desirable acquisition.

POPULAR ART HANDBOOKS

Cartwright, Julia (Mrs. Ady). RAPHAEL. Illustrated with thirty-two exquisite photogravures.

Art cloth, stamped in gold, 8vo, 114 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K

Illustrations in polychrome of the Old Masters are not satisfactory, as the color is so different from the originals; the photogravure, reproducing as it does both softness and detail, gives the best possible idea of the picture. This volume, the first of a series which is to be the last word in books, inexpensive but of remarkable value, is devoted to Raphael and a consideration of his place in art. An illuminative analysis of his work in Urbino, Perugia, Florence, and Rome is followed by a critical estimate of the great artist as architect and decorator and by a résumé of his last years.

SANDRO BOTTICELLI. Illustrated with thirty-two exquisite photogravures.

Art Cloth, stamped in gold, 8vo, 84 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K

The art and personality of Botticelli have had a singular fascination for scholars and critics. The strong individuality of his conceptions, the depth and originality of his thought, his fine poetic imagination and keen sense of beauty appeal in a peculiar manner to the modern mind, and have made him as popular in the present day as he was in his own lifetime. In this volume Mrs. Ady has scored a distinct success. Through the medium of her delightful prose, while describing the artist's work, she succeeds in picturing the times when he lived and the visions that confronted him when he painted his masterpieces.

Chesterton, Gilbert K. G. F. WATTS. Illustrated with thirty-two exquisite photogravures.

Art cloth, stamped in gold, 8vo, 114 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K

This volume is a brilliant consideration of perhaps the most popular and certainly the most gifted of English artists. His life and work are traced in most interesting fashion and things take on new meaning when his aims and efforts are revealed through the medium of a gifted biographer such as Mr. Chesterton. The book demonstrates that the artist had equal ability in portraiture and in the conception and depiction of allegorical scenes, and the exquisite photogravures are evidence of the superiority of this method of reproduction over all others.

Gronau, Dr. Georg. LEONARDO DA VINCI. Containing thirty-two photogravures.

104 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K

Admirers of the creator of "Mona Lisa" will find much to please them in this succinct and thorough work on the great master's marvelous productions. Dr. Gronau, while regretting the fragmentary information regarding Leonardo, has been able to shed much light on the darkness which shrouds his life and work.

The thirty-two photogravure reproductions are masterpieces in themselves.

Hueffer, Ford Madox. HOLBEIN. Illustrated with thirty-two exquisite photogravures.

Art cloth, stamped in gold, 87 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K

This brilliant monograph on Holbein, making clear the training and later accomplishments of one of the greatest of German Old Masters,will appeal to student and art lovers alike The volume plainly shows that he possessed both the artistic temperament and technical ability which made his lifework a gigantic success. Consisting in the main of portraits, for which Holbein was famous, his work is peculiarly fitted for reproduction in photogravure.

ROSSETTI. With thirty-two photogravures.

88 pages, wt. 22 oz.....Net $1.25 K

Professor Hueffer in this interesting work on Rossetti, his painting and poems, expresses many original thoughts concerning one of the most popular of the latter day painters. He grants Rossetti the tribute of genius but declines to concede that he is a master, though he says his work possesses infinite charm, the one quality that atones for the technical failure. Of Rossetti's personality he says, "He was great, magnetic, prodigal: a man who attracted men."

The maps, 120 in number, pleasingly colored to distinguish political boundaries, cover every country, every State in the Union, the Canadian Provinces, all outlying United States possessions and the Island groups.

A double index for the United States is especially valuable; one contains over 100,000 cities, towns and villages arranged alphabetically, with latest population of each place and a key to location on the map; the other index is arranged by states, giving population and location of counties and all incorporated cities, towns, and villages. The foreign index gives the name, location on the map and latest available population figures of practically every city and town in the world.

Since the start of the European War the text matter, such as included in this atlas, has been especially interesting and of immense educational value. A full page, accompanies each map, pertaining to the area, population, topography, climate, soils, agriculture, manufactures, defense, and places of interest.

The text matter is admirably supplemented by many beautiful colored illustrations of famous sights and scenes of the different countries. Charts and diagrams of practical value on industries, population, religions, armies and navies are included.

The dramatic stories of the Old Testament and the beautiful narrative of the New, as here retold and illustrated by both maps and pictures, make a manual of biblical geography and history of great interest and value to students and teachers of the Bible. Vincent, D.D., LL.D. There are fifty-three large, interesting views of the country, its cities, and people, while the maps alone, sixty-seven in number, make the volume desirable. MAPS, CLASSIFIED IN SERIES

INDEXED POCKET MAP SERIES

(Rand McNally)

Characteristics. This well-known series embraces maps of the individual states of the Union, provinces of Canada and Central America, and Mexico. Each map is drawn on a large scale with all data completely and accurately entered. Contrasting colors are used to distinguish political boundaries.

Data. In the state and provincial maps counties are printed in contrasting colors, their names appearing in large, black type. In most instances the township boundaries are entered in black, together with their range and number. Mountain ranges, rivers, and lakes are very well indicated. Entire railroad systems are brought out in black lines, these lines standing out particularly well against the coloring and less important data. Electric lines are shown in red or black. Absolutely all cities, towns, postoffices, railroad stations, and villages, no matter what their size, are entered in graded type to represent their relative size and importance.

The Pocket Editions. In these editions the index accompanying each map lists alphabetically all data carried by the map, including mountains, rivers, lakes, islands, counties, cities, and towns. A ready-reference index, latest official population figures, and express, telegraph, and mail service accompany the name of each city and town.

The Vest-Pocket Editions. These editions differ from the pocket editions in that the index printed on the reverse side of each map is somewhat condensed.

RAND-McNALLY MAPS OF THE UNITED STATES

United States and Southern Canada, New Official Railroad Map of the. A brilliant network of lines represents the complicated railroad system of this territory, each road or system being clearly traced in a separate color, and so made easily distinguishable throughout its entire length. These railroad lines are laid against a white background on which all state and county boundaries, Indian reservations, mountain ranges and peaks, lakes and rivers show distinctly in black. Principal cities and towns are shown, their relative importance being indicated by graded type. Thus, on this map the location of the commercial centers, with connecting lines, can be seen at a glance. The map is printed from plates carefully prepared from the latest records of the United States Land Office and Surveyors General for the different states.

Chicago and Surrounding Country. The manifest demands for an accurate road map of Chicago and surrounding country have prompted us to issue this excellent publication. The territory covered includes Cook, Lake, and Dupage counties and portions of the adjoining counties. The map covers the same territory as our map of Cook, Lake, and Dupage counties. We have eliminated the county coloring and entered the good touring roads of the territory in solid red lines, while the inferior roads are shown in broken red lines. The fact that sectional boundaries are shown in the foundation of the map makes the mileage along any road easily determined.

We recommend this to be our best road map of the territory covered.

Extracts from the Prize-Winning Review of "The Daredevil"

"Here is a tale that is as refreshing as a drink from a sparkling brook on a spring morning. After wading through oceans of sex drama and romance done in the same old stereotyped way, behold something that is different. An Adventure with a capital A, that has much of a 'deliciousness,' in the language of that fascinating boy-girl, the daredevil, Roberta.

"Again Miss Daviess has scored, as in 'The Melting of Molly,' in reaching the public heart by appealing directly to that organ. Her lovable creation, 'The Marquise de Grez and Bye,' French born, but worshipper and emulator of her American father, plays her man's part with tact and delicacy, while uttering in her quaint French-phrased English, sentiments that have the real human touch. One finds between the gay covers of 'The Daredevil' an appetizing mixture—enough of intrigue for a legitimate plot, sufficient love interest to appeal to young and old of both sexes, interspersed with a dash of humor and philosophy.

"Those of us who do not demand the really true story, but are willing to depart from the realm of absolute realism into the land of fancy, follow with positive joy the wild escapades of this dashing French maid as she makes her debut into 'the land of the Lady of Liberty.'

"Our sympathetic interest lasts until we smile happily as the plucky masquerader proves that love begets love, and a woman's a woman for a' that."

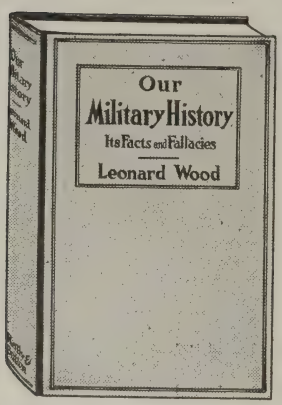
Our Military History
Its Facts and Fallacies



By Leonard Wood
Major General, U. S. A.

HERE is a book that is receiving more discussion than any other non-fiction title published this season. The subject of military preparedness, with which it so splendidly deals, is the biggest question this country has to face. General Wood is the best-known figure in our army, a man whose name gets columns of publicity every day, and whose word, in matters of this sort, carries the highest authority. Our Military History is strong, clear, to the point. It advocates a sane army system—and tells how to get it.

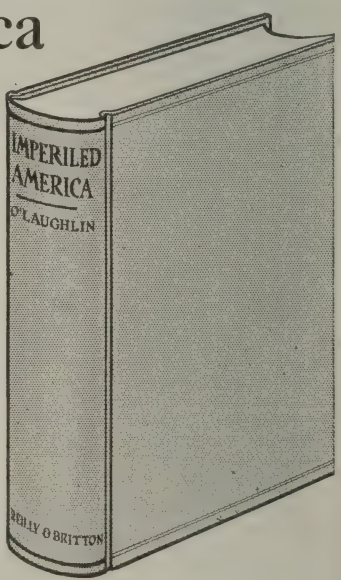
Imperiled America

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Former Assistant Secretary of State; Secretary U. S. Commission to Japan.



THE dangers and the problems that face the United States as a result of the European War are outlined in masterly fashion and from a new angle in this book. The author is an experienced diplomat as well as a forceful writer. He sees international affairs from the inside—as no layman can see them—and he speaks in words that all men understand. Mr. O'Laughlin brings to bear wise reasoning and keen insight in answering the question—Where does America stand, now and in the future?

Buffalo Evening News.

The Daredevil

By

MARIA THOMPSON DAVIESS

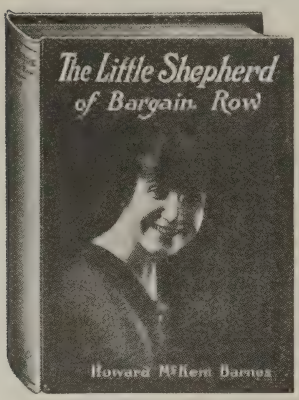
HERE is a romance that touches two continents. How a beautiful and titled French girl flees to the United States from war-rent France after the death of her American father at the Marne, and is driven by force of circumstances to dress the part of a boy; how she saves the honor of a proud old state and wins the love of its great-hearted governor—that's the story.

No author of recent years can surpass Miss Daviess in the faculty of creating pleasing characters. Her "Buzz" Clendenning and her General Carruthers, types of the new South and of the old Confederacy; Cato, wisest and blackest of 'fo'-the-war servants; and the big, quiet figure of the Governor of Harpeth—all are inimitable.

The setting of the story is as delightful as its personalities, for the wide, fertile valleys of middle Tennessee, under the shadow of the great hills, are drawn for us by a loving hand.

And then Roberta—"hero and heroine both," as one reviewer has called her! If she weren't so charming in the rôle of her own bright, girlish self, it would be almost a pity to have her discard her male attire at the end of the book. For as a boy she makes herself nearly as fascinating to the reader as to the "girl-bunch" of pretty Tennesseans with whom she flirts and dances. The adventures of this spirited young masquerader are woven into a plot that is particularly full of dash and action.

An Entertaining Piece of Light Fiction



The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row

By Howard McKent Barnes

NOT in the true sense a novelization of a play; its plot formed the basis of a comedy in which Miss Sarah Padden is achieving a notable success, but the story is an independent piece of fiction. The success of the play cannot, however, fail to win readers for the book.

It has much dialog, witty and laughter-provoking. It has a heroine of distinct originality and a plot that is replete with unusual situations. Nora Blake is a new kind of "Leading Lady," as real and as captivating as her own picturesque slang. A story of the "all-business" girl, who plays the game of hearts with her head. If you like a story of vivacity and brisk movement, you will enjoy "The Little Shepherd."

A Padden picture jacket in color. 11 half-tone reproductions of scenes in the play. 12mo. $1.25 net.

GUIMÓ

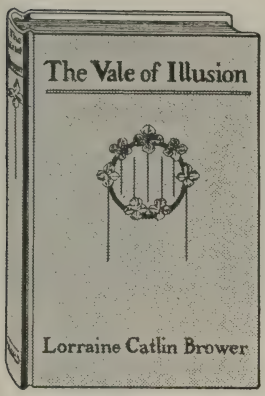
By Walter Elwood

Enthusiastically commended by reviewers as a book that will live.

A SYMPATHETIC story of a wistful brown-skinned idealist of our Philippine possessions, whose naive, boyish dreams merge into hero worship of the conquering Americans. "Guimó" is one of the most haunting characters of recent fiction. A sincere and honest piece of work, vibrant with life and color and romance.

12mo; cover stamped in gold. Illustrated. $1.35 net.

"Both strong and sympathetic"—Boston Transcript.



The Vale of Illusion

By Lorraine Catlin Brower

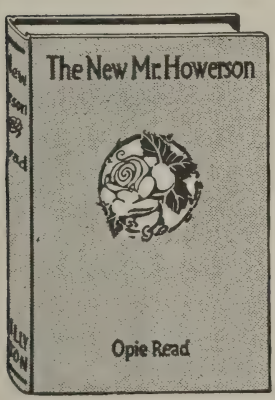
The Intimate Story of a Woman Who Learned to Understand

"MRS. BROWER has gone into the sex problem, but she has handled the subject with rare skill and delicacy and in a somewhat 'different way.' It is the old question of a double standard of morals worked out cleanly and without sex prejudice. The book ought to meet with wide popularity."—Los Angeles Tribune.

THE printing of the second edition of this book was ordered before publication, attesting the ready interest of the trade in this well-written novel. The story is a first-class piece of fiction whose incidents are centered about one of the most widely discussed problems of the day. It shows insight and judgment, but, better still, a happy faculty of sinking discussion in the telling of a thoroughly entertaining story, one whose people are too lifelike and too much themselves to be merely pawns no matter how vital the consequences of the game they play.

12mo; bound in extra cloth. Four half-tone illustrations from oil paintings by Grant Tyson Reynard. Cover stamped in color and gold; striking pictorial jacket. 423 pages. $1.25 net.

For the reader who likes a story with the tang of a unique personality



The New Mr. Howerson

By Opie Read

"A novel of genuine interest and merit."—New York Evening Post.

MR. READ has made himself a permanent place in American literature. He is what might be called a classical writer of popular fiction. His shrewd but kindly wit, his keen satire and rich poetic fancy, together with a knack of writing only about interesting things, have endeared him to more than a generation of readers.

The New Mr. Howerson is the product of a mature Opie Read, retaining all the spontaneity and brilliance of his earlier work, but richer in understanding of human nature and broader in his sympathies. It is the story of the regeneration of a man whose strength has led him astray and whose weakness breeds a new strength to play the hard game of life. It is a story of plot and incident and dramatic climaxes. It holds a promise of a long, steady sale.

Extra cloth binding; cover design in gold and blind stamping. Pictorial jacket in full color. 12mo. 460 pages. 75 cents.

When a Man's a Man

By HAROLD BELL WRIGHT

THE story combines the bigness and the virility of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" with the sweetness and simplicity of "The Shepherd of the Hills." Beneath the stirring scenes, the thrilling incidents of the adventurous life depicted, one feels always the enduring life forces of real men and women. When a Man's a Man is a strong story of the "unfenced country," where, to survive, a man must be a man.

As Popular as Ever at the End of Eight Years

Miss Minerva and William Green Hill

By Frances Boyd Calhoun

40,000 copies sold in the first nine months at the new price

"Miss Minerva" will sell as long as there are grown-ups who love children and remember the tragi-comedies of their own youth

MISS MINERVA and William Green Hill has seen a measure of success and a length of life seldom accorded a book in these good-for-one-season days. Seventeen large editions have been sold, to delight at least three-quarters of a million people. There is a big field still untouched; we believe that the new price will reach an entirely different class of readers, and that the book will repeat the success it made as a dollar book. "Miss Minerva" ought to go into every home in America.

No one who has read the charming little story ever forgets it. "Miss Minerva" owes its wide popularity to the pleased readers who have praised it to their friends. Each sale brings another. There is no age limit to its enjoyment; its spontaneous humor appeals to everyone.

The comedy of childhood, presented with rare insight and sympathy, showing, withal, a keen sense of the ridiculous. Miss Minerva, spinster, the Major, persistent suitor, William Green Hill, mischief personified, are intensely human; the droll sayings of William and his young friends, their escapades and the consequent comic but no less real despair of his Aunt Minerva, touch a responsive chord in the heart of every lover of children and of laughter.

Illustrated with many clever pen-and-ink sketches, in thorough keeping with the humor of the text. Half-tone frontispiece. Cloth, large 16mo. 50 cents net.

"Fresh as its own green cover, bright as the golden shamrocks comprising the cover decoration, and from first to last instinct with the spirit of the old sod," says the Chicago Herald is

Darby O'Gill and the Good People

By HERMINIE TEMPLETON KAVANAGH

"This book carries the glamor of Irish vivacity, laughter, jokery and sympathy....with new sparkles of wit in every chapter."—Chicago Examiner.

DARBY O'GILL is a character whose adventures among the "good people" will delight you. The brogue is rich but easily readable; the style is as delectably individual as the stories are diverting. For the reader of any race or age or temperament.

Mrs. Eli and Policy Ann

"A deliciously funny story, with a golden thread of romance. Books like this are a genuine pleasure. The author has a subtle gift of character delineation, and her style is inimitable.—Buffalo Courier.

A SWEET little love story, that contrasts artistically with the whimsical characters in Mrs. Eli's family. There is a skillfully devised plot that holds readers through to what Mrs. Eli finds a most satisfactory conclusion.

By Frank Wing

A Look — A Laugh — A Sale

Put it where people can pick it up

A Popular Hit. Over 26,000 Copies Sold and the Demand is Increasing.

WITH all the unconscious humor of the old family album — the repository of old tintypes and glossy cabinets of a past day, with their old-fashioned clothes and stiff poses and self-conscious do-or-die expression—enriched with a lavish hand and a keen sense of the ridiculous. Almost facsimiles of the old-time portraits—just close enough copies to make them all the funnier.

The Funniest Book in Years

The "new neighbor" sees the "family" through the eyes and the candid tongue of eleven-year-old Becky, whose greatest faculty is "letting the cat out of the bag." Each sheet has its characteristic picture, while opposite is Becky's contribution to the cause of laughter.

The humor is irresistible; try reading it aloud to a friend. The first book sent out brought this reply: "It surely is not only a 'hit' but a 'home run.' Please send me four more, because I have four friends in mind who need a little merriment for their systems."

A Novelty of Decided Originality

In idea and make-up a book of refreshing uniqueness. It isn't "something like" anything. Half-tone pictures printed in "photo brown." Cabinet size. 96 pages. Size, 6x9 inches. Two bindings:

Stiff paper; characteristic stamping; 50 cents net. Leatherette, semi-padded, gold-stamped. Facsimile of the old familiar style. Boxed, $1.00 net.

The Tribune Primer

By
EUGENE FIELD

THE author of the Tribune Primer holds a place unique among humorists in the hearts and memories of the American people. The man who wrote "Little Boy Blue" and "Wynken, Blynken and Nod" needs no words of praise or even of introduction. The Tribune Primer stands out as the most popular among all his prose writings. Its homely humor and gentle sarcasm have won it a host of friends, not only in the city where it first appeared, but all through the United States. The present edition, besides being beautifully printed and bound, is illustrated with pen-and-ink cartoons by Roswell F. Field, son of the author.

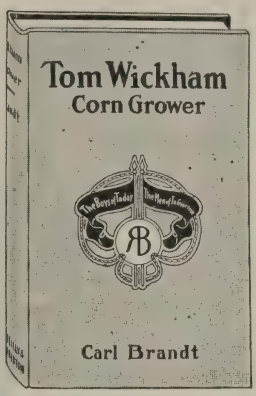
—the motto of the boys of today and the aim of educators. A series embodying high ideals in juvenile fiction.



The Boys of Today

By Carl Brandt

"The boys of today—the men of tomorrow."

Stories of Reality, Adventure and Accomplishment

PLENTY of action, plenty of thrill; and behind the entertainment of a well-told story the boy-man thought that expresses the spirit of the new order of things: "I must make something of myself." The stories are genuine and live—they deal with things boys are really doing and thinking and enjoying. They recognize the fact that youth is the time for fun, without ignoring the truth that it is as well a time of preparation. They are books for parents to buy in approval, and for youngsters to read in genuine interest. Two titles:

Tom Wickham, Corn Grower. A story of a Virginia boy who won out against odds when both prejudice and the elements worked against modern farming methods.

Bob Hazard, Dam Builder. Tom Wickham's chum Bob in a government irrigation project that involves mystery and danger as well as considerable hard work.

Jacket in full color. Four half-tone illustrations by Fred J. Arting. Extra cloth binding, stamped in gold and color. 12mo. Per volume, $1.00 net.

By the Author of the Oz Stories

Daring Twins Series

By L. Frank Baum

THOSE youngsters, boys and girls, who know Mr. Baum through his "Oz" books, will be delighted with The Daring Twins Series, written to keep pace with their older interests.

The same fertile imagination that created the inimitable Baum fairy stories has made these books for older boys and girls, individual and characteristic, losing nothing by coming from the realm of fancy to everyday life.

In "The Daring Twins" and "Phoebe Daring" Mr. Baum has written two stories of real boys and girls in a real family and under real conditions. The stories have a plot interest that holds close attention. Humorous at times, but with a serious story to tell, these two books will appeal to young readers from the first page.

TWO TITLES

1. THE DARING TWINS
2. PHOEBE DARING

In speaking of Mr. Baum's "Daring Twins" books the Brooklyn Citizen says: "Not only very interesting, but has a tendency to encourage right thinking and right living on the part of its young readers."

The "Daring Twins Series" are large 12mo., with very bright and catchy cover designs and jackets in four colors, and four half-tone illustrations in each volume.

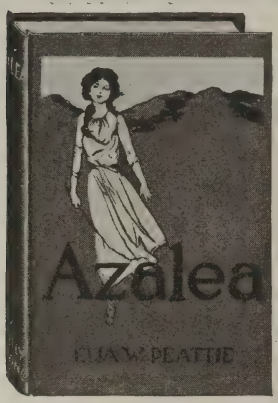
Worth While Books for Girls



The Blue Ridge Series

By Mrs. Elia W. Peattie

"Written by one who evidently understands girls in all their moods and tenses."—Memphis News Scimitar.

OF "Azalea" the Chicago Tribune said: "The sort of book all the family will want to be reading at the same time." Of "Annie Laurie and Azalea" the Chicago News said: "Free from sickly sentimentality, and decidedly invigorating and wholesome." The new title is characterized by the same naturalness and vigor. No girls' story in years has met with a more cordial reception from reviewers, parents and girl readers, than that accorded the initial volumes of the Blue Ridge Series.

These are stories of the Blue Ridge Mountain country. Each is complete and individual, but each carries forward the fortunes of Azalea, a girl of personality and charm, now become the close friend of many readers. Plot, characters, setting, are alike interest-holding, but the greatest charm lies in the personality of the author shining through between the lines.

Worth-while books of permanent value; a series destined for long-continued popularity. Four titles:

2. Annie Laurie and Azalea.
3. Azalea at Sunset Gap.

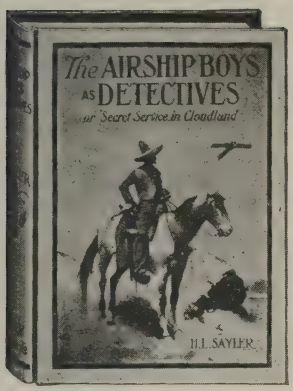
The Airship Boys Series



By H. L. Sayler

"The author's especial knowledge of aeronautics stands him in good stead in writing such works as this, and he is a distinct success in the field."—Salt Lake City Tribune.

BOYS' adventure stories in a realm where the romance of yesterday is the established fact of to-day. There is a wealth of plot and action, and the characters are boys who appeal to the imaginations of young readers. Their exploits are always full of thrill; behind it all is a degree of technical knowledge and mechanical detail fascinating to the boy who likes to know how things are done.

There has been a great renewal of interest in aeronautics due to the vital part played by aircraft in the European war. The new title of the series, "The Airship Boys in the Great War," links this interest closely to the Airship Books.

The new title is written by DeLysle F. Cass, a new writer of considerable magazine success. The story is lively in style and interest; things happen rapidly enough for any boy. Seven Titles:

Or, The Quest of the Aztec Treasure

THE AIRSHIP BOYS ADRIFT
Or, Saved by an Aeroplane

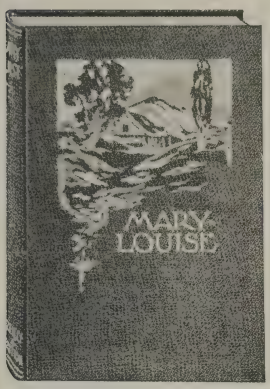
A Charming New Heroine



The Mary Louise Series

By Edith Van Dyne

The first two volumes of the new series indicate that the author of "Aunt Jane's Nieces" will repeat the success of that universal favorite.

Girls' Books of Wide Appeal

MRS. VAN DYNE'S stories for girls have always had an appeal to older readers. Without being beyond the understanding of the girl of thirteen, they have nevertheless been as carefully planned and written as any novel. And the stories have not been too trivial for the girl of eighteen. Naturalness and humor and a genuine knowledge of girlhood is the secret of Mrs. Van Dyne's charm.

The new series bids fair to equal the success of the "Aunt Jane" stories. In the first volume Mary Louise is still a young girl, but the incidents which center about her will hold the interest of any reader. There is mystery and suspense and no little thrill. Mary Louise is a sympathetic character; girls of her own age will fall in love with her. There is no doubt that they will want to follow her through a good many volumes of stories as appealing as the initial title.

Mary Louise. A little girl with a big problem to solve. The story of how a girl's pluck vindicates her unswerving faith in those she loves.

Mary Louise in the Country. An outdoors story with Mary Louise in experiences with a strong element of unexpectedness.

Illustrated 12mo. Jacket in color. Per volume, 60 cents.

The Aunt Jane series appeals to young readers because the author neither tries to preach nor to "write down" to their youthful minds, but is satisfied to be natural and entertaining. The stories have a wealth of plot and action and the style is lightened with no little humor. Patsy and Beth and Louise are three girls of individuality and resourcefulness and they manage to get themselves involved in a good many exciting situations. They are just as resourceful in getting out of their various ambitious undertakings, but the doing is always attended with plenty of suspense and excitement.

The Event of the Juvenile Year

Rinkitink In Oz

By

L. FRANK BAUM

Full of the clever pictures of
John R. Neill

RINKITINK IN OZ is a bit different from the other Oz Books, and begins in a strange land far from the dominions of Ozma, but it has the distinctive Oz interest. There is a plucky, good-natured boy Prince for the hero, a jolly, fat King, full of the most nonsensical verses and jokes, for a title figure, and a goat—the grumpiest, most curious billy who ever turned out to be an enchanted Prince. There are adventures enough to satisfy any child, and the wonderful fairyland of Oz appears in renewed attractiveness.

The boy Prince of Pingaree, set out to rescue his parents captured by the cruel warriors of King Gos, is aided only by Rinkitink, Bilbil the goat, and three magic pearls—which he promptly proceeds to lose. Then come all sorts of trials that almost prove too much for brave Inga, but Princess Dorothy and the Little Wizard come into the story at the right time and help bring it to a happy close in the Emerald City.

JOHN R. NEILL'S pictures are better than ever. There are twelve full-page illustrations in full color, and forty-five black-and-whites, besides chapter heads, tailpieces and many smaller illustrations and designs.

Uniform in size and style with the other Oz Books. Bound in extra cloth; four-color cover inlay. Jacket in full color. Color pages printed as inserts. Nearly 100 illustrations. $1.25

THE Oz Books will sell each other. The publicity given the new Oz Book each year creates a demand for the rest of the series. They are handsome big books, lending themselves well to display.

The long-continued popularity of the Oz Books shows that they are more than surface stories. There is something genuinely wholesome about these entertaining tales of a wonderland of invention. The early slogan, "No child ever went to sleep frightened after reading the Oz stories," has been made good by subsequent books. Parents appreciate such stories for their boys and girls. L. Frank Baum is a master of whimsy and fun. Droll character invention, unique adventures, surprise and pure story delight; children come back again and again for more or for the same over.

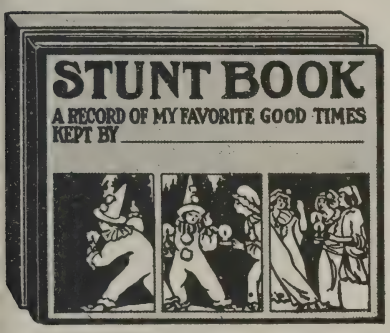
A New Record Book of Popular Appeal

THE STUNT BOOK



Designed by

ELIZABETH COLBORNE

THIS is essentially a book for young people—either in years or in spirit. It makes an ideal gift for the friend who is "always up to something." It is a good book to take along when starting on a vacation or going away to school. It is not, however, a school record book. It covers the school period, as well as practically everything else an active young person engages in, in the way of recreation. It is, we believe, the most comprehensive record book on the market, besides being one of the most attractive.

Classified Departments, Headings, Lists, Detailed Records, Special Ruled Forms, Covering the Following General Heads:

Photographs, My Friends' and My Own—Mementoes of Friendship—Birthday Parties—Birthdays of My Friends—People as I Meet Them—My Home—My School—Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior Years at School, and Class Records—Graduation, and all its Details—A Department for Each Holiday of the Year—Summer Vacation Stunts—When My Friends Marry, Miscellaneous Stunts.

There are decorated headings, full-page illustrations, ornaments, borders, tailpieces, appropriate to the various departments. The illustrations are artistic and very attractive.

A record book de luxe, with a strong appeal to every class of trade. It should prove exceptionally popular as a gift book.

There are places for pasting in photographs, programs, newspaper notices; envelopes for enclosing mementoes; a special indexing device.

Cloth bound; pictorial cover inlay in full color. Printed in five different colors, with black, on high-class writing-surface paper. 8x11 inches. 160 pages. In gift box, $1.75

There are several specially decorated pages for a record of guests and gifts. Autographic presentation page.

The illustrations and designs are printed in two colors; the headings are all hand drawn and the text is hand set. Printed in dainty colors throughout by the offset process.

The board covers have very attractive pictorial designs printed in full color by the offset process. Each book contains 32 pages. Size 4x5¼ inches. Put up in display cartons of 24 assorted books. Per volume, 25 cents.

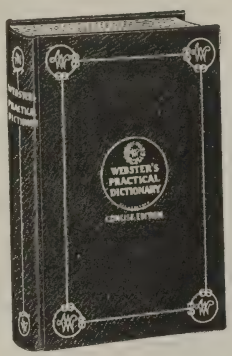
Webster's Practical Dictionary

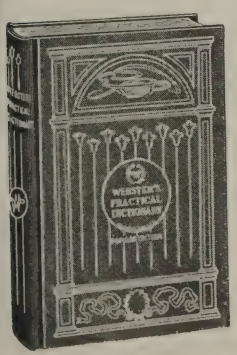
LATEST EDITIONS—UP-TO-DATE
Authorized and Copyrighted by
G. & C. Merriam Co.



THE PRACTICAL is all that its name implies—a practical dictionary of the English language, embodying the 31,465 words in practical use. While this dictionary is an abridgment of the well-known Webster's Condensed Dictionary, it carries more words than any other handy sized dictionary, excepting the genuine Webster series, not to speak of its better illustrations and its definitions of later words, such as antitoxin, lyddite, chauffeur, automobile, radium, mercerized, limousine, etc. The authorship is the same as that of the Unabridged and Condensed Dictionaries. Like the larger Websters, its authority is genuine and endorsed as such by educators. The Practical is published in two styles, designed to meet the needs of the public at most reasonable prices.

A Reliable and Adequate Dictionary for Home or Office

The Practical Dictionary is the ideal volume for school use, convenient in size yet meeting every requirement of comprehensiveness and easy reference. Nearly fifteen hundred illustrations. New typeset plates, printed on excellent paper, giving easy reading qualities.



The Concise Edition contains 528 pages printed on high grade book paper and bound in extra cloth. Cover in gold and blind stamping. Size, 7¼x5¼x1 inch.
65 cents.

The Popular Edition is identical in its contents with the Concise edition, containing 528 pages. It is well printed on a good grade of paper and bound in durable cloth. Ornamental cover design. Size, 7¼x5¼x1 inch.
40 cents.

¶The Trail to the Hearts of Men. A Story of the East and West. Illustrated, 12mo, cloth 1.35

A story of action and power with the scenes laid in China. The hero is a man of high ideals, determined upon a life of high purpose. Social ties—including a sweetheart—endeavor to hold him, and he has to come to the cross-road of decision. He chooses for his higher ideals to find in the long run, the other things are his. There is much of the spell of adventure in the story, and some quickly-moving scenes that grip and hold the reader with undiminished interest.

A choice body of sermonic material, the general trend and theme of which is the necessity that has arisen in these later days, for a steady, deeply-rooted confidence in things that are eternal. The troublous days through which the world is now passing, has brought perplexity and sorrow to many loving hearts. For all such, as well as believers everywhere, Mr. Holden's new book breathes a message of solace and enheartenment.

¶Paul the Apostle. 12mo, cloth..... ... 1.co

A life of the Apostle to the Gentiles, which, while fuller than the brief outlines usually followed in class instruction, is sufficiently condensed to admit of its being specially adapted to the use of busy men and women and the young people of the Church. The events and incidents of Paul's career are woven into a continuous narrative, furnishing a living picture of his wonderful life as far as that life can be known.

Here is a Boy Scout's story which has to do with the average boy of the city. Like "The Bishop's Shadow" and "The Scout Master of Troop 5," it is fresh, breezy, clear-cut and catchy—written with the idea of helping boys to do their part of the world's work. The author's wonderful insight into the boy nature and knowledge of his ways of work and recreation is here apparent.

In four parts, dealing with: (1) The mathematics of investment, including all the calculations in connection with annuities, sinking funds, interest, bond valuations, etc.; (2) Problems illustrating such calculations in detail; (3) The use of ordinary and 12-place logarithms in investment calculations, with tables; and (4) 8-place tables of (a) Compound interest, (b) Present worth, (c) Amount of Annuity, (d) Present Worth of Annuity, (e) Sinking Funds. Arithmetical methods are followed throughout rather than algebraic, making an extensive knowledge of higher mathematics unnecessary to understand the work. Third edition. 1914. 371 pages. 5¾ x 8¼. Half leather. $5.00.

Accountancy Problems

By Leo Greendlinger, C.P.A. Two volumes for accountants and students preparing for Certified Public Accountant examinations, containing C.P.A. questions, with and without answers, selected from examinations from 1898 to 1911. The solutions given are authoritative. The distinction between the two volumes is principally one of date. Vol. 1 (393 pages), examinations 1898 to 1908, contains 142 selected questions with solutions, and papers containing similar questions without solutions. Vol. 2 (458 pages) gives the solutions to 148 selected questions in examinations from 1908 to 1911, and additional questions without solutions. 6 x 9. Green buckram binding. $5.00 per volume.

Accounting Practice and Procedure

By A. Lowes Dickinson, C.P.A. He also discusses some special points in connection with corporation accounting and finance, cost-accounting, and the duties and responsibilities of the public accountant. Mr. Dickinson is one of the most widely experienced men in the accounting profession, and his suggestions are exceedingly helpful in handling the problems covered. 1914. 315 pages. 5¾ x 8¼. Cloth, $3.00. Half leather, $3.50.

The handling of each individual asset account and liability account is then taken up in detail, giving the "why" of each step, and finally the preparation of the different forms of balance sheets, the profit and loss account, statement of affairs, statement of realization and liquidation, etc., are explained in full. Of great value both for study and as a reference work. 1914. 519 pages. 5¾ x 8¼. Cloth, $3.00. Half leather, $3.50.

Cost Accounting—Theory and Practice

By J. Lee Nicholson, C.P.A. This is the practitioner's text-book of cost accounting, specially designed to give, in the most concise manner possible, a thorough grasp of the basic principles of cost work and their practical application. Costs are resolved into their fundamental elements, and these are assembled into four typical systems which are the basis of all cost systems, simple, or complex. Each of these systems is then taken up in detail, analyzed, explained, charted, and its application discussed. Special chapters are devoted to the examination of the plant and devising the cost system. 80 basic forms are given, from which any form required in practice may be readily constructed. It should be stated that general discussions have been altogether omitted, and consequently the user of the book should have some general knowledge of cost work to begin with. (See also Webner's FACTORY COSTS.) 1913. 341 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Half leather. $4.00.

C. P. A. Auditing Questions

Compiled by H. C. Bentley, C.P.A. A collection of practically all the auditing questions that have been asked in American C.P.A. examinations, from the first one in 1896 to January, 1914, duplicates being eliminated. The questions are grouped under their respective states, and indexed by subjects. There are 700 questions in all, from eighteen states. The book is a valuable guide in the study of auditing. 1914. 247 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

C. P. A. Problems and Solutions (General)

A series of volumes giving complete Certified Public Accountant examinations of the more important states, with solutions worked out by leading practitioners. All questions are given—Accounting Theory, Accounting Practice, Auditing and Commercial Law, or whatever the division of subjects may be in that particular state. While the solutions are, of course, not official answers, they can be taken as authoritative and in accordance with approved practice. These examinations are issued in semi-annual volumes, each usually containing four examinations. For those preparing for C.P.A. examinations, they are almost indispensable, and to practicing accountants they are most valuable for reference. Details of the volumes so far issued are given below.

C. P. A. Problems and Solutions (1914 volumes)

Vol. I (346 pages) contains examinations of Pennsylvania, November, 1913; New York, January, 1914; Illinois, May, 1913; Colorado, December, 1913; solutions by Moxey, Pierson, Esquerré, Conyngton, Andersen, Bays, Fink and Wood. Vol. II (375 pages) contains examinations of Missouri, December, 1913; Ohio, November, 1913; New York, June, 1914; Massachusetts, October, 1914. Solutions by Breyer, Cross, Esquerré, Conyngton, Philbrick, Fraser and Dunn. Uniform cloth binding. 5¾ x 8½. Price, $3.00 for each volume.

C. P. A. Problems and Solutions (1915 volumes)

Vol. I (351 pages) gives examinations of Wisconsin, April, 1914; Ohio, November, 1914; New York, January, 1915; Pennsylvania, November, 1914; solutions by Elwell, Farrell, Tanner, Conyngton, Kohr, Cross, Esquerré, Moxey, and Pierson. Vol. II (375 pages), examinations of Illinois, May, 1915; New York, June, 1915; Massachusetts, October, 1915; Missouri, December, 1914; solutions by Himmelblau, Schnackenberg, Philbrick, Boyd, Bays, Bicknell. Same price and style as above.

Factory Costs

By F. E. Webner, C.P.A. The best way to describe this book is by a statement of how it differs from COST ACCOUNTING THEORY AND PRACTICE, noted on page 2. The general ground covered by the two books is the same, but while the object in Mr. Nicholson's work is to cover in the most concise way cost accounting and nothing else, FACTORY COSTS goes into more general discussions, and gives consideration to questions of factory organization and management in connection with cost finding. Forms are also given in much greater detail, there being some 200 in all. The choice between the books depends on whether the user wants a concise text limited strictly to cost accounting operations, or more of a cost-accounting encyclopedia. 1911. 611 pages. 6 x 9. Buckram. $6.00.

The Journal of Accountancy

The official magazine of the American Association of Public Accountants. Every one interested in accounting should subscribe. Monthly. 80 pages per issue. Each issue contains articles by leading accountants on accounting questions of general interest and methods for particular lines of business; special Income Tax department, giving current rulings and comments; and Students' Department, solving practical accounting problems. U. S. subscription $3.00 per year. (Foreign $3.50.) Send 30 cents for sample copy.

Lumber Manufacturing Accounts

By Arthur F. Jones, C.P.A. The accounts of lumber manufacturing, from the record of standing timber to the shipment of finished lumber from the mill. Covers the books required, the classification and construction of operating accounts, a cost system for logging and saw-mill operations and the details of shipping, with all operating forms. Special chapters are devoted to the technical terms used in the lumber business and debatable points in lumber accounting. The treatment covers only manufacture of lumber from timber; it is not intended to include wood working or any of the plants subsidiary to the saw-mill. 1914. 112 pp. 5¾ x 8½. Half leather. $2.00.

Municipal Accounting

By D. C. Eggleston, C.P.A. A definite and thorough book on accounting for cities, based on the author's experience in the Department of Finance, City of New York. Gives the method for handling every kind of financial transaction of a city, illustrated by a complete set of city accounts, worked out with specific figures. Every journal entry, ledger account, balance sheet and form is readily accessible, so that each transaction can be traced from its origin, through the books, into the financial statement. Goes fully into detail regarding various municipal funds, purchase and voucher records, payrolls, judgments and mandamuses, stores, expense analysis, municipal costs, collections, etc. 1914. 456 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Half leather. $4.00.

The Philosophy of Accounts

By the late Charles E. Sprague, C.P.A. This work is one of the accounting classics, and is still probably the most satisfactory treatment of the pure logical reasoning on which accounting is founded. From this standpoint are discussed the mathematical equations of accounting, the construction and form of the account, structure of the balance sheet, assets and liabilities, proprietorship, insolvency, accounting periods, "economic" accounts, the trial balance, the financial books, theory of detection of errors, etc. No attempt is made to deal with the practice or detail of accounting in the book, its object being to develop analytical problems from a purely logical standpoint. Generally regarded as one of the fundamental books with which every accountant ought to be familiar. Fourth edition. 1912. 161 pp. 6 x 9. Cloth. $2.00.

Practical Accounting Methods

By Moxey, Greeley, Jefferson and Grundman. Presents and explains various typical systems of accounting for different lines of business—a building and loan association, a life insurance company, a fire insurance company, a bank, a brewery, a department store, a gas company, a railroad, a street railroad, and an estate. While the treatment is necessarily brief, it gives a good conception of each system, its operation and forms required. 1913. 502 pages. 6 x 9. Buckram. $3.00.

Principles of Depreciation

By Earl A. Saliers, Ph.D. A new American work, giving in concise form the meat of the depreciation question from the accountant's standpoint. The book is in three parts—I. Theory—II. Practical applications, and a discussion of depreciation in connection with regulation by courts and commissions, the Income Tax and valuations—III. Detailed explanation of the six methods of figuring depreciation charges. For completeness Mr. Saliers has included an appendix explaining the use of logarithms in interest calculations, and a bibliography of books and articles on depreciation. 1915. 200 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Half leather. $2.50.

Principles of Factory Cost Keeping

By E. P. Moxey, Jr., C.P.A. The best elementary book on cost accounting. The reader unacquainted with the technique of accounts will have no difficulty in getting from this elementary work a clear idea of the essentials of cost accounting and their relative importance. No attempt is made to cover practice, save as necessary to illustrate principles. 1913. 102 pages. 5 x 7. Cloth. $1.00.

Repayment of Local and Other Loans: Sinking Funds

By E. H. Turner, A.C.A. (English). An exhaustive treatment of the calculations and problems that arise in connection with the establishment of sinking funds to liquidate the loan obligations of cities or business organizations. The book covers mathematical principles, methods of repayment of loan debts, the annual installment, and the problems relating to the date of borrowing and redemption period, the life of the asset, the equation of the period of repayment, and the equation of the incidence of taxation. Logarithmic methods are used throughout. 1913. 530 pages. 6 x 9½. Buckram. $6.00.

The Science of Accounts

By H. C. Bentley, C.P.A. A working reference manual for bookkeepers and accountants, built up around the classification of accounts. Every important account of mercantile and manufacturing business is discussed, its purpose and relation to other accounts explained, and the account itself presented in chart form, showing with what items to debit and credit that account, the balancing entry, and what it represents. The form and arrangement to follow in preparing the financial statements usually required are also shown. In other words, the book gives "what to do" in quickest reference form, with concise explanation of reasons for the procedure. It is not intended as a text-book developing the principles. For this purpose APPLIED THEORY OF ACCOUNTS, noted on page 1, is better suited. 1913. 392 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth. $3.00.

By George French. A work dealing with the larger questions of advertising in a very interesting way. Mr. French discusses the fundamental principles of successful advertising, the extent to which scientific methods may be employed in it and how far it is purely personal ability, who really pays the cost of advertising, advertising as a social and an economic factor, the causes of inefficiency of present methods, etc. The value of the book is in the understanding it gives of what advertising really is and what it does. The young man or woman considering advertising as a life-work, and the business man who is trying to decide what the possibilities of advertising are for him ought to read this book carefully. 1915. 258 pages. 5¼ x 8. Cloth. $2.00.

Selling Newspaper Space

By Joseph E. Chasnoff, late Manager of Advertising Promotion, St. Louis "Republic." There are many books on the writing of advertisements, but this is the first on the selling of advertising space, particularly on the selling of newspaper space. Mr. Chasnoff goes straight down to the fundamental problem, showing newspaper salesmen how to analyze their field, and build up their selling policies on a solid foundation that will mean a continuously increasing amount of space sold. Incidentally, the book gives in concise form the very gist of newspaper ad-writing. 1913. 133 pages. 5¼ x 8. Cloth. $1.50. (See also "Scientific Circulation Management," page 12.

The Modern Corporation

By Thomas Conyngton, of the New York Bar. A condensation of the matter contained in the larger corporate works of Conyngton. While this book does not go into the detail of the larger volumes on "Corporate Organization" and "Corporate Management," (which see), it outlines the important features of corporate organization and management fully enough for purposes where a general knowledge of essentials is all that is desired. 1910. 302 pages. 5 x 8. Cloth. $2.00.

Credit and Collections

The Art of Collecting

By R. J. Cassell, Collection Manager, Grinnell Bros., Detroit. Tells how to get the money and keep the customer. Covers everything—organization of a collection department, collection information, studying the debtor, collecting installment accounts, city accounts, dealers' accounts, collecting by mail, personal collecting, using the law, etc. Nearly 100 letters that have brought in thousands of dollars are given complete. One of the best books on collecting to be had. 1916. Third printing. 261 pages. 5½ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

Credit, Its Principles and Practice

By Benjamin H. Blanton. A book for the use of credit men, not on the theory of credit, which is assumed to be familiar to the reader, but on handling the actual problems of credit-granting. Covers the credit office machinery, credit-granting as affected by the customer and the house, bank credits, the commercial agency, safety appliances in the credit department, credit insurance, the collector and his methods, collection and credit correspondence, collection agencies, and adjustments. Special explanation of procedure under the bankruptcy law. Very practical, and well thought of by credit men. It is particularly valuable to the young man starting in business. 1915. 319 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

Mercantile Credits

By Care, Elliott, Flautau and others. "Mercantile Credits" explains in an interesting way the fundamentals of credit-work. It is based on a series of lectures delivered by prominent credit men, business men and lawyers, before the Y. M. C. A. of Los Angeles, each of the authors discussing some special topic. Treats in detail system and efficiency in the credit department, bank credits, financial statements, bankruptcy, etc. The tuition for the original lecture course was $10, which gives an idea of the worth of the book. 1914. 288 pp. 5½ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

Retailing

The Economics of Retailing

By Paul H. Nystrom, Ph.D. An exhaustive analysis of present conditions in retailing, of great value to the retail manager who would build up his business along solid lines, and the distributor whose sales are made through retail channels. The subjects covered are the distribution system, the conditions surrounding the consumer, retailing expenses, salespeople and their wages, location and rent as factors in retailing, department stores and chain store systems, the mail order business, price maintenance, present tendencies in retailing, etc. The book is full of valuable facts and figures obtained during extensive personal investigations. 1915. 407 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

Making a Drug Store Pay

By Frank Farrington. A remarkable autobiography, telling frankly and completely how Mr. Farrington made his own drug store pay—how he worked up his store and his stock—how he added one specialty after another—how he treated his customers—how he advertised—where he failed and where he succeeded—and in all cases giving facts and figures. Over 250 successful advertisements are shown in facsimile. The chapters all deal with definite steps in building the business, such as handling the soda water trade, starting up the candy business, advertising for special days, agencies, side lines, premiums, etc. If there is any value in experience, this book is worth a lot of money to any retailer. 1914. 303 pages. 5½ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

Selling Suggestions

By Frank Farrington. A collection of about 2,000 suggestions on points that make a store a profitable or losing proposition. The questions and suggestions deal with things that come up every day, from advertising and show-room display to business judgment and common-sense and grit. This book is a great thought-inducer, and keenly appreciated by practical storekeepers out for results. 1913. 274 pages. 2 volumes. Flexible binding. $2.00.

Special

The American Office

By J. William Schulze, C.P.A. A work on office management, based upon the author's personal experience and investigation of the methods in use by leading American concerns. Part I—treats office organization, the lay-out, the furniture and appliances, and the employees. Part II—discusses office management, training of employees, distribution of work, salary, and general supervision. Part III—covers office records and systems, giving illustrative forms. Part IV—contains typical office manuals used in some of the largest concerns in the country. This book helps to strengthen organization, simplify records and raise the standard of efficiency. While written for the office manager, the ambitious employee will by all means find this book well worth thorough study. Second edition. 1914. 418 pages. 6 x 9. Cloth. $3.00.

The Business of Insurance

Edited by Howard P. Dunham, of the Aetna Life Insurance Company. A book specially prepared to give the insurance man a comprehensive view of the business in which he is engaged, and to prevent his limiting his opportunities by becoming a too narrow specialist. Covers Fire, Marine, Life, Accident, Industrial, Burglary, Automobile, Fly-Wheel, Surety, Title and Tornado Insurance. Also discusses Agency Management, Home Office Management, Branch Office Management, Premium Rates, Organization of Companies, Policies, Advertising, Correspondence, Office Organization, Settlement of Losses, Salesmanship, etc.—in short everything connected with the business of insurance. Among the 80 authors are such men as Frank A. Vanderlip, Hugh Chalmers, Sylvester Dunham, Henry Moir, and many high officials of insurance companies. This book has been adopted as a text by the Insurance Institute of America, and systematizes a reading course in Insurance, that would, if purchased as a correspondence Lecture Course, cost several times the price. Complete in 3 volumes. 1550 pages. 6 x 9. Buckram binding, $10. Half Morocco, $12.50.

Community Development

By Frank Farrington. Every business man realizes the advantage of building up his town, but few understand how to go about it. Mr. Farrington's book tells how to get results. It shows how to utilize the town's advantages, organize live commercial clubs, get members for local organizations, keep the trade at home, interest the neighboring farmers, manage improvement societies, etc. Mr. Farrington has had much practical experience in this kind of work; in this book he gives scores of plans that have been used successfully. A good book for business men to read. 1915. 257 pages. 5 x 7½. Cloth. $1.50.

Effective Business Letters

By Edward H. Gardner, of the Faculty of the University of Wisconsin. The great difference between "Effective Business Letters" and other books on this subject is that this book not only gives examples of effective letters, but it shows just how to write them, from making a single sentence as strong as possible to co-ordinating the entire letter into one strong and effective statement. This book teaches how to write winning letters—letters that accomplish their purpose, whether it be to make a sale, refuse credit without offending the customer, collect a slow or bad account, or simply a routine letter which will bring good will to a company. There are clear and definite instructions, real help in "Effective Business Letters." It will be difficult to frame a question on the business letter that this book does not answer. Many business houses noted for their efficient methods are using from 6 to 15 copies in their correspondence departments. Second edition. 1915. 376 pages. 5¼ x 7½. Cloth. $2.00.

Extended Bond Tables

By Charles E. Sprague, C.P.A. Gives (a) the rate of income a bond will yield at a certain price, or, (b) the price at which a bond will yield a certain annual income. While there are, of course, many sets of bond tables published, the distinctive features of these tables are their scope and accuracy. The results are carried out to 8 places of decimals, giving values accurate to the nearest cent in $1,000,000. While the rate of the ordinary tables varies by eighths and tenths of 1%, these read direct by twentieths of 1%, and if difference tables are used, by hundreths of 1%. The tables can be used for bonds ranging as to interest from 1¼% to 10% annually and running for periods extending from one-half year to 100 years. By means of special tables, quarterly or annual bonds may be reduced to a semi-annual income basis. The tables may also be used as annuity tables. Fourth edition. 1915. 233 pp. 4½ x 8. Flexible leather. $6.00.

Financing an Enterprise

By Francis Cooper. How to go after the necessary capital for a new or established business, and how to investigate a proposition before putting money into it. Explains the conditions necessary for success in financing an enterprise; how to systematically investigate a proposition; how to protect it legally; the proper bases of capitalization under different conditions; how to present the proposition to prospective investors; underwriting; when legal assistance is necessary; corporate features; stock arrangements, etc. This book, written by a business man of twenty years' experience, treats the financing of business undertakings in the way the ordinary man wants them treated, dealing not only with figures, but with personal problems and actual business conditions. Fourth edition. 1915. 525 pages. 5½ x 8. Cloth. $3.00.

Getting the Most Out of Business

By E. St. Elmo Lewis. Every man to succeed in business has to formulate some kind of a consistent philosophy—a business policy, as it is usually called. This is not only the great fundamental in business, but it is the most elusive thing to grasp. Mr. Lewis has been for years one of the representative figures among American business men—in close touch with the policies and methods of concerns like the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, the National Cash Register Company, the Art Metal Construction Company, etc., holding positions from Vice-President and General Manager down. He has always been a keen student of men and methods, policies and results, success and failures. In this book he gives hundreds of examples of these, and from them formulates a philosophy of business that is not only inspiring but sound in practice. Specific problems are discussed—advertising, selling organizations, management, handling of men, discipline, personal efficiency in getting things done. Business men in important positions all over the country have bought this book and cannot say too much for it. Third edition. 1915. 483 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

Indexing and Filing

By E. R. Hudders. A complete standard practice manual that has been badly needed. Nearly all published information on filing so far available either gives details for one special class of files, or simply broad information about the general system of files used. This book gathers the definite, specific information into one systematic volume for use in business offices. It explains the 5 basic systems of filing and where each can best be used, and explains in full each detail of filing work—the indexing, filing of cards, filing of papers, finding lost papers, transferring, grouping of records, filing of information and data, catalogues, purchase, sales and credit records, invoices, checks, vouchers, electrotypes and cuts, etc. There is a chapter that will be very helpful in the selection of filing equipment as needed, and illustrative chapters giving the full working details of files for three typical offices—lawyers, architects, and accountants. 1916. 304 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth binding. $3.00.

Influencing Men in Business

By Walter Dill Scott. "Influencing Men in Business" shows how to gain the ability to influence men by mastering a few simple laws for influencing their minds. Long ago, business men turned to chemistry and physics for help in handling things. Now the keenest ones are turning to psychology for help in handling men. The author of this book is one of the leading practical psychologists of the country. For years he has studied, experimented and tested to find the practical applications of psychology to business. In the present book he explains the mental processes by which men think and are led to act. His statement of this is as scientific and authoritative as a manual of chemistry, yet so clear and practical that the business man can put its ideas to use the very day he reads it. 1914. 168 pages. 5 x 7½. Cloth. $1.00.

Letters That Land Orders

By J. Horace Lytle. A short book prepared by Mr. Lytle, conveying in the easiest possible way the fundamental principles of sales letter writing. Mr. Lytle follows the interesting method of taking actual selling letters that he has been paid for preparing, explaining how they were built up, and showing why they produce results. Second printing. 1914. 170 pages. 4¾ x 7¼. Cloth. $1.00.

The Lumber Industry

By R. S. Kellogg. A summary of conditions of supply and operation in the industry of manufacturing lumber from timber. Covers statistics of supply of timber, acquisition of timber rights, explanation of the different steps in manufacturing, methods of cost keeping and tendencies of the industry. Concise and complete. 1914. 104 pages. 5¾x8½. Cloth. $1.00.

Net Worth and the Balance Sheet

By H. G. Stockwell, C.P.A. A simple, clear explanation of how to read the balance sheet of a business concern and get from it an understanding of the existing financial conditions. Explains the general structure of the balance sheet and then takes up each item—cash, notes, merchandise, bonded debt, capital, etc.—explaining what it means, its relation to the other items and its effect on the standing of the business. A big help to the business man in getting from his books of account a clear conception of just where his business stands, and a good book for bookkeepers to read. 1912. 206 pages. 5x7½. Cloth. $1.00.

Salesmanship for Women

By Adelaide Benedict-Roche. Helpful and definite advice on the work of the canvassing saleswoman. Written especially for women, but contains much sound common-sense advice that is valuable to any one selling by soliciting. Mrs. Roche is herself a successful saleswoman, and was for many years in charge of the Sales Department of the Spirella Corset Company. The book covers the possibilities of salesmanship as a vocation for women, the qualifications needed, selecting the right article, creating the right first impression, preparing the selling talk, building up the sale, getting necessary licenses, etc. Second edition. 1914. 137 pages. 5 x 7. Cloth. $1.00.

Scientific Circulation Management for Newspapers

By William R. Scott. Circulation is the life blood of a newspaper and circulation management a problem that requires initiative, executive ability and a study of successful newspaper circulation-building methods. This book gives facts, figures and methods of the best organizations in this country. A few of the important points covered are the principles of circulation management, relation between advertising and circulation revenue, details of the complete circulation methods of the Indianapolis "News," the building up of discipline and enthusiasm in the Circulation Department, and the use of special features, premiums, contests, etc., in circulation campaigns. Many valuable forms are given for the keeping of circulation statistics and records. 1915. 310 pages. 5¾ x 8½. Cloth. $2.00.

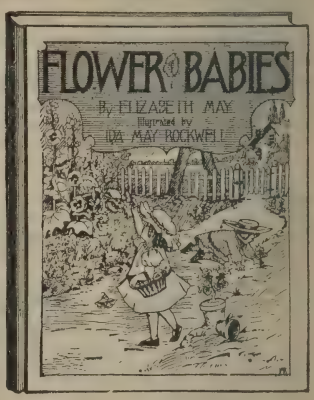
RHYMES OF EXTRAORDINARY MERIT WITH PROFUSE ILLUSTRATIONS IN COLORS



Not all rhymes that were illustrated, however, passed muster. Each volume must have some definite aim — must aid in the development of the child.

For instance, two volumes nurture the love of blossoms, giving correct impressions through the illustrations of flower forms and colors. The realms of folk lore, legend and history are opened by light-footed rhymes, and told again by picture. A traveling rhymster sings of the trades of the times, and the drawings in color show the workmen at their tasks. One volume calls into play the child's imagery, another his humor, and a third gives the child heart thoughts that lift him up and soothe him into slumber.

IN BORDERLAND AND THE BLUE BEYOND

By LEIGH GROSS DAY
With illustrations from photographs

The author-artist has used her camera, pen and brush to tell in verse and picture of that indefinable time when children linger with reluctant feet on the border of manhood and womanhood. She takes us a bit further down the "primrose path" of courtship as her fancy names it, where the first flutter of the Love god's wings make the maiden shy and the lover bold. The delicate sentiment of the verses makes an irresistible appeal to youth and to all those who cherish sweet memories of "borderland" days and the timid wooing of first sweethearts.

Photographs of bonnie lads and lasses, together with bits of alluring landscape make this book most original, unique and artistic.

THE PEACE GREENFIELD SERIES

BY RUTH ALBERTA BROWN

AT THE LITTLE BROWN HOUSE
Volume I

The six Greenfield girls are orphans, living in the little brown house at the edge of town. Peace—her name is hardly synonymous with the lively, impulsive, generous little genius—undertakes the mending of the family fortunes. What dismay! What disaster! And yet the last chapter sees the sextette settled in a new home, under the kindly protection of an adopted grandfather, the happy discovery of Peace.

"Peace Greenfield is a character study of which any author should be proud."—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

THE LILAC LADY—Volume II

In which Peace, the fly-away, the capricious, the adorable, sojourns with her two parsonage friends. A forbidding hedge across the way bars her from what she is sure must be heaven itself. One day she is chasing a canary she is trying to mimic and through the hedge she darts—to find awaiting her their mysterious neighbor, the Lilac Lady.

HEART OF GOLD—Volume III

Outspoken, big-hearted, harum-scarum Peace is almost overwhelmed when an ugly fall chains her to her bed for weeks, and then months. But if ever a heart of pure gold beat in a bit of humanity, it was in this same Peace Greenfield, and many a reader will rejoice when the sun peeps through for her again.

"She worms her way into every heart, and holds her place there," says The Los Angeles Express of the heroine of Heart of Gold.

THIS PRACTICAL IDEA
FOR ILLUMINATING AND BEAUTIFYING THE WORD OF GOD

THE WORDS OF CHRIST PRINTED IN RED

They readily catch the eye and instantly command interest.

HELPS TO THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE

The most accurate, complete and interesting aids for the study of the Book have been prepared for this edition by the greatest scholars of the Bible in the world. These Helps are not only the latest and best, but are fuller than those found in many other teachers' Bibles. For outline of these Helps see first page of this catalog.

Mere printed words cannot describe the beauty of these Red Letter Bibles; they fail to give a real idea of the richness of the binding, splended quality of the paper, or the completeness of this remarkable edition. They must be examined to fully appreciate what a beautiful example of the bookmaking art they are.

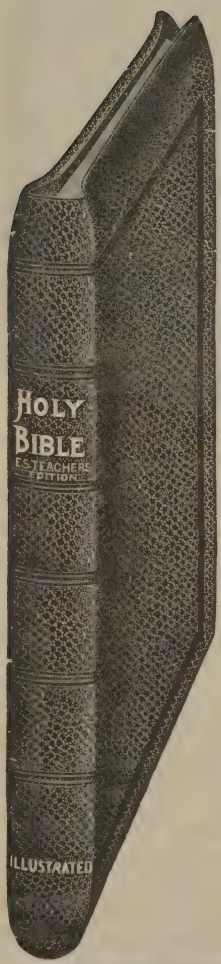
The Story of the Life of The Christ



The sixteen illustrations, all in exquisite colors, which are found in these de luxe editions, are reproductions of the paintings of the great masters of the brush. Such a portrayal of the life of Christ brings to us the story more vividly than many readings of the Bible words themselves.

The scenes shown are:

The Angels' Visit to the Shepherds
The Adoration
The Flight Into Egypt
In the Home of Joseph and Mary
The Boy Jesus in the Temple
Jesus Blessing the Little Children
The Feeding of the Five Thousand
Jesus and Peter Walking on the Sea of Galilee

WEBSTER'S RELIABLE DICTIONARY

Is recommended to all who seek a handy sized, abridged dictionary for constant use. It is remarkable for three features:

UNUSUAL RICHNESS OF THE VOCABULARY

The Webster's Reliable Dictionary is of most convenient size — 5½x7⅝x1½ inches, with 715 pages, yet contains a vocabulary that is truly exceptional.

All derivatives are run in under the root word, in bold faced type, saving valuable space. Two columns of the Webster's Reliable style contain as much as three columns of other dictionaries.

THE LUCIDITY OF DEFINITIONS

While terse and concise, the definitions in the Webster's Reliable Dictionary are never so brief that clearness has been sacrificed. In many works of the same size a list of synonyms has been deemed sufficient to define. So feeble a method has been scorned for the Webster's Reliable Dictionary.

VALUE OF APPENDIX

Webster's Reliable Dictionary contains 150 pages of supplemental material, covering fifteen subjects of practical every-day value, supplying information appreciated by the student, writer and general reader.

Size, 5½x7⅝x1½ inches, 715 pages, illustrated.

VOCABULARY—These pages give as much satisfaction as some unabridged lexicons.

NOYES' No. 19

Perfectly Adjustable Dictionary Holder

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

For the proper care and convenient use of your dictionary.

When dictionaries, or other heavy books, are in daily use, A HOLDER IS INDISPENSABLE. It saves the wear and tear on the book and enables you to conveniently and quickly find what you want.

Our Holder is not only ATTRACTIVE and DURABLE, but is MUCH CHEAPER than holders sold by other houses.

This Holder is constructed upon a new principle. The lids are operated by a single hold-back spring. It locks when opened, and it closes and clamps the book firmly when unlocked. This Holder can be adjusted to any book, but is specially adapted for your dictionary, Bradstreet, Dun, or any other volume of like size, too heavy to handle conveniently. It can be adjusted to any height or angle, and is pivoted to turn to any position. It stands firmly on four legs which are furnished with casters. The base is bronzed, the standard nickel-plated, and the case of polished walnut.

Beside holding the dictionary, the Holder is furnished with a separate shelf, or book-rack, which will hold eight or ten volumes, and is a great convenience. It is so simple in construction that there is nothing to get out of order. AFTER TWENTY YEARS OF PROPER USE, IT WILL BE AS GOOD AS NEW. It is STRONG, ELEGANT, and EXCEEDINGLY CONVENIENT, and by far the best on the market.

RICHARD EDWARDS, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Springfield, Ill., says:

"I have examined the Dictionary Holder and it seems to be admirably adapted for its purpose. It is easy to handle, otherwise convenient, and does not injure the books. The use of it in a school would have the effect of saving much of the wear and tear of the books consulted as well as making the consultation easier. It would save time and save wear."

J. C. BURROUGHS, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Chicago, Ill., says:

"I have examined the Dictionary Holder and greatly admire it. In aiding the use of the dictionary and other large books, and at the same time preventing wear and tear of the binding, it would be invaluable."

E. A. GASTMAN, Superintendent of Schools, Decatur, Ill., says:

"I consider your Dictionary Holder very superior in every way."

BOSTON TRANSCRIPT: A GREAT COOK BOOK. There is apparently no end to the making of cook-books. The largest, and we assume from the authorship, one of the most important issues in this line of literature, is "The Cook-Book by Oscar of the Waldorf," Oscar being Oscar Tschirky, maitre d'hotel of the most aristocratic hotel in New York. It may be imagined that it is not specially prepared to meet the necessities of the ordinary housekeeper, or for the dwellers in flats. Nevertheless, even these can learn from its immense collection of recipes and suggestions, which fill nine hundred large quarto pages. There is hardly anything in the whole domain of cookery that is not touched upon. In the beginning the author makes a few suggestions with regard to the kitchen, gives instructions as to how a dinner should be served, the wines appropriate to each course, and a list of fish and game in their season. The volume, which is printed by The Werner Company, is a handsome specimen of book-making, printed in large clear type, and bound in strong canvas covers.

PUNCTUATION SIMPLIFIED

By T. BRIDGES

A Guide to Correct Punctuation

Punctuation is used to make all writing clearer, but oftentimes rules are not understood, and the result is that, though the words themselves are used rightly, they convey wrong ideas.

This hand-book gives a few simple rules without the use of grammatical terms—such as noun, pronoun, verb, etc.—and illustrates each rule with many examples to impress its application on the mind. The illustrations have been most carefully selected, first that they illustrate the rule, and second for their intrinsic literary merit.

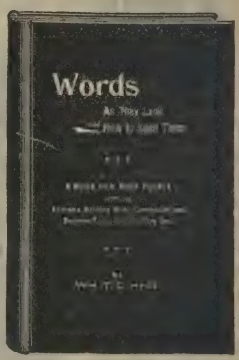
WORDS AS THEY LOOK

AND HOW TO SPELL THEM

By WILLIAM T. C. HYDE



Being able to spell correctly does not depend upon the sense of hearing, for those who trust to spelling by sound go farthest astray, but it depends almost entirely upon being able to remember HOW THE WORD LOOKS. Therefore this book is of inestimable value to the busy American who cannot take the time or trouble to learn rules as to why certain words double the consonant or drop the final e, etc.

Special Features of the Book

Contains, in alphabetical order, practically all the words in general use liable to be misspelled.

The letters which are liable to be transposed, misplaced or otherwise misused are printed in bold-face type.

Contains the largest compilation of homophonous words ever published.

SELF-EDUCATOR SERIES

Edited by JOHN ADAMS, M. A., B. Sc.

The object of this series is to meet the needs of students who are either unable or unwilling to attend classes in subjects which they wish to study. No effort has been spared to make the books self-contained. It is taken for granted that no help is available other than that to be found in the pages of the various volumes, and it is hoped that this help will be sufficient to enable the most isolated student to give himself a thorough grounding in the subjects he takes up. The books begin at the beginning of their subjects, and carry the student far enough to enable him to continue his studies intelligently and successfully on his own account. Two common mistakes have been carefully avoided: (1) Expecting too much from the student. (2) Attempting to exhaust a whole subject in one book. Each volume contains all the "Essentials" of the subject, and concludes with a set of hints on how best to prosecute the study as a private student.

CHARACTER READING

By MRS. HENRY SYMES

An attractive hand-book on how to tell the ability, disposition, faults, graces and characteristics in general by the lines of the face, eyes, eyebrows, nose, mouth, chin, etc.

Harry Thurston Peck, in the N. Y. American, says:

"In it are given very simply the principal facts about the reading of character through the study of physiognomy. The author describes the different features—the eyes, nose, mouth, and chin—and states just what is denoted by the various types of each. What she says is strictly true—as true as the mathematical demonstration, and in her pages we have found nothing to criticise. . . . . The book is really valuable, and if you will test its rules by applying them to the persons you know best, and to yourself, you will see how wonderfully exact they are."

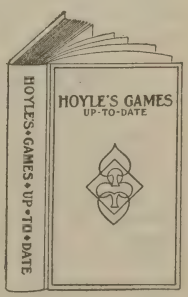
HOYLE'S GAMES UP-TO-DATE

With Chapters on Auction Bridge and Other New Games

Revised by PROF. ELWELL



"According to Hoyle" is a common synonym for correct play in a card game, and it is a fitting tribute to Edmund Hoyle, the great card authority of the eighteenth century.

In the present volume no attempt has been made, however, to reproduce his original text, though his book of instructions was accepted as final authority as late as 1864. This edition is firmly grounded on the teachings of the master, but amplified and brought up to date, to include all the later games and to conform with present rules of play.

All in all, this edition should be the constant companion of every card enthusiast.

S. F. NIXON, Speaker.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, MINNEAPOLIS.

The Consolidated Library is a library of useful knowledge. I have examined the work with much interest and am delighted with it.

It will be a real treasure alike for parents and children in any household that may secure it.

It will not merely add to the family's knowledge. It is sure to cultivate a taste for the best kind of thinking and living.

INTERNATIONAL CRITICAL COMMENTARY on the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. Under the present editorship of The Rev. FRANCIS BROWN, D. D., L. Litt., L. L. D , and the Rev. ALFRED PLUMMER, M. A., D. D., planned and for years edited by the late Prof. C. A. BRIGGS, D.D., in America, and Prof. S. R. DRIVER, D.D., and Rev. ALFRED PLUMMER, D.D. in Great Britain.

This Commentary is international and inter-confessional, and is free from polemical and ecclesiastical bias. It is based upon a thorough critical study of the original texts of the Bible, and upon critical methods of interpretation. It is designed chiefly for students and clergymen, and will be written in a compact style. Historical and Archaeological questions, as well as questions of Biblical Theology, are included in the plan of the Commentary, but not Practical or Homiletical Exegesis. The volumes constitute a uniform series.

LUTHERAN COMMENTARY, THE.

By Scholars of the Lutheran Church in the United States, under the editorial charge of HENRY EYSTER JACOBS, D.D., LL.D. Is being published after extensive correspondence and consultation between the general editor and Lutheran scholars throughout the country. It comprises twelve volumes of about 400 pages each, and incorporates the text of the revised version. The work fills an intermediate position between scientific and popular exposition. It does not enter into the discussion of critical questions, but seeks to present results. It is adapted to the wants of pastors, and is especially valuable to intelligent laymen and Sunday-school teachers. 12mo, Each, 2.00
